

UCSI College:

EQUIPPING STUDENTS AND CURRENT WORKFORCE WITH NECESSARY SKILLS AND KNOWLEDGE FOR CAREER SUCCESS

Higher education in the East has taken some time to find its rhythm when compared with its western counterparts. With the students happy to experiment with new countries to pursue their higher education, the educational institutions in the east are perfectly poised to take the mantle from the western higher education institutions. Malaysia has been growing into a prominent international study destination over the past few years. The rich higher education tradition of the country coupled with their ability to integrate cutting edge teaching methods into their curriculum has helped Malaysia to attract a wider student population. Pioneering the Malaysian higher education strata is UCSI Group that owns UCSI University and UCSI College apart from various schools, hotel chains, and hospitals to name a few. The group led by industry stalwart Dato' Peter Ng, Founder and Group Chairman has evolved into one of the most recognized names in the South East Asia region.

Dato' Peter Ng,
Founder & CEO

Dato' Peter Ng is the founder and CEO of UCSI Group. Hailing from a poor family in Linggi, Negeri Sembilan, he grew up believing that the transformational power of education would turn his family's fortunes around. Taking a chance on him, Ng's parents worked hard to grant his wish and Ng left for Canada to read a double degree in computer science and psychology at Lakehead University. Upon completion, Ng returned and founded UCSI Group in 1986 with education as its niche. Today, more than 20 subsidiaries are parked under the UCSI umbrella. The Group's many ventures are anchored on a commitment to champion value innovation and sustainability for stakeholders around the world.

Down to earth by nature, Ng often delights in the simpler pleasure of life – often a game of basketball that he indulges every other day. Never one to forget his roots and the struggles of his younger years, he frequently contributes to charitable causes and returns to his hometown whenever he can.

Universities. The vision of the college is to be the leading college renowned for its leadership in academic pursuits and engagement with the industry and the community.
